

Finding Parking Spots

The Gladiators

Problem Statement:

It is far too difficult to find parking spots in a city because of the density of the population. We want to find a way to let people know where there are open spots and how much those spots may cost.

Who is Experiencing the Problem:

Anyone who drives in a city.

What is the Problem:

Parking is too hard to find.

Where does the Problem Present Itself:

We find the problem is most present in cities.

Why Does it Matter:

So people can avoid frustration and be on time.